Product description

Phiero Secret is a combination of odorless substances that act like female sex hormones, increasing sexual attraction. It is based on the natural attractive power of pheromones to capture male interest. It does not present any odor, so it can be combined as desired with any type of fragrance. The brain receives the signal in the face of a positive stimulus and triggers reactions that, as a consequence, provoke in the recipient an attraction and longing for the person who has released them.

Phiero Secret is indicated for:

- Increases sexual attraction
- Promotes personal relationships
- Increase female attraction
- Increased confidence and self-esteem
- It combines with any perfume Immediate effect

Facilitate your flirtations and improve couple situations with the fragrance with pheromones Phiero Secret Phiero Secret relies on the natural attractive power of pheromones to capture male interest. It does not present any odor, so it can be combined as desired with any type of fragrance.

Pheromones are odorless and consciously undetectable to the human sense of smell, but our sense of smell can perceive secreted pheromones, without being aware of it. The brain receives the signal in the face of a positive stimulus and triggers reactions that, as a consequence, provoke in the recipient an attraction and longing for the person who has released them.

For pheromones to be captured by our body, they must be presented as volatile substances, since these substances must be able to travel from one body to another in the form of particles, to later be captured, as happens with odors.
