If you’re a brand new to electro-sex and experimenting for the first time with this unique type of play, you won’t know which stimulation level is right for you. Don’t worry, none of us do at the start!

With KIX, we’ve removed numbers entirely for a simpler experience that’s geared up for anyone just starting their electro-sex journey. Rather than the traditional numerical intensity levels of other stimulators, KIX phases gently through a colour spectrum as you increase or decrease the sensations.

Starting with cooler tones to represent lower intensities and ending in warmer, richer colours at the maximum output, not only does KIX look striking, but encourages you to experiment by feel. Instead of a ‘stepped’ approach to intensity, KIX phases with silky smoothness between levels for a steady progression that’s literally at your fingertips. Up and Down touchpads allow for seamless progression through the levels with a light touch; ideal if you’re looking for a discreet addition to your play.

KIX also has 5 built-in stimulation patterns which includes a unique “Sweep n Keep” mode where the frequency of the stimulation can be modified alongside intensity for a surprisingly large range of sensations.

Boasting a single output that’s perfect for solo or partnered play, the pocket-sized KIX is also USB rechargeable and eco-friendly- lasting for around 3 hours of continuous play*

KIX also comes with a set of conductive pads to let you play right out of the box.
