Product description

Are you longing for an electric butt plug that has a little more oomph? That you could change sensations in new and creative ways beyond Why use a different pattern?

Joining the Silicone Noir range, the Tartarus Quadripolar Butt Plug is based on a classic bullet-shaped plug with a distinctive twist that enhances the sensation further. ; from the reach of any other accessory.

Tartarus has a quadrupole design in which the body of the plug is divided into four distinct conductive areas that are independently controlled. Comparable in size to the best-selling Medium Rocker anal plug, the unique configuration of four conductive zones stimulates 360 degrees around the anal passage. This wide range of sensations creates an intense illusion of "fullness" additional during use without exceeding the physical limits of less experienced players.

Powered by a dual output stimulator*, the four sections of Tartarus can be connected in such a way that the electro passes from one conductive point to another in a circular motion. This creates a whole new type of electrical sensation we call "virtual rotation," where the plug feels like it's spinning and spinning while remaining completely still.

Each plug on the Tartarus base corresponds to a section of the plug, giving you total freedom to experiment with any desired configuration and the differences they make in sensations. Using a continuous wave or pulse pattern will give This will result in a pleasurable, powerful sensation and an improved sense of "fullness", but we recommend trying an alternating wave or pulse pattern that will trigger the sensation of fullness. different sectors of the plug at different times. Quadripolar play requires a 2-channel stimulator such as Flick Duo, Flux, SensaVox or AXIS* and both standard cables to have four plugs connected at once.

Like our Rocker Plugs, Tartarus features a rounded base for seated play where the connection jacks are recessed to prevent damage to the cables. Please note that all ElectraStim cables are technically compatible with Tartarus, but the base has been designed specifically with our 90 degree cables in mind (They will sit flush during use).

The configuration of the plugs on the bottom of the plug corresponds to specific sections of the toy (per the diagram below). There is no "correct" or "incorrect" to organize them; In fact, we highly recommend experimenting with moving them to create different sensations. Each plug on the bottom corresponds to a certain quadrant of the toy, so you can mix up how you plug in the cables as explained below.

Similarly, using a Continuous Wave or Pulse pattern will give This will result in a pleasurable, powerful sensation and an improved sense of inner girth, but we recommend trying an Alternating Wave or Pulse pattern that will trigger the inner girth. different sectors of the plug at different times.
