WHICH CUP SHOULD I CHOOSE?
Let's take a look at your options! Remember that these are general suggestions and there are many exceptions to all of them. You know your body better than we do. When in doubt, start with EXPLORE KIT.

SIZE A? Smallest 5.3 cm; 4cm; 20ml
Firmer silicone for greater control when placing and adjusting a smaller cup to
Good for: lighter flow, people who are nervous about wearing something larger, women under 30.

SIZE B? Largest 5.8 cm; 4.3cm; 30ml
Softer silicone for a comfortable fit that retains a rich flow without feeling intrusive
Good for: heavy flow, women over 30 and/or who have had a vaginal birth.

EXPLORE THE KIT 1 SIZE A AND 1 SIZE B
Good for: Women who don't know what size they should choose or want one cup for light days and another for heavy days.

The FUN CUP has a shape that curves with your body and the thickness of the silicone varies accordingly. The rim is thicker and firmer to keep the cup reliably in place. The tapered tip is also firm, for easy adjustment. In the middle, the silicone is softer and thinner than other cups, so it adapts to the shape of your body for maximum comfort.

CONVENIENCE
Never run a tampon late at night again. Never go frantically searching in your bag for the pad you can swear you put there before. Never feel your heart sink because your friends' bathroom doesn't have a trash can, and you're holding a cotton ball soaked in blood.

How long you leave it on depends on your flow, but the FUN CUP's impressive capacity means that even someone with a heavy period can go much longer between trips to the bathroom. I just wash it between uses, or? If you find yourself in a multi-stall war bathroom? He wipes it with toilet paper and puts it back on. If you think your period will start soon, you can even use some lube and put it on ahead of time, so you don't have to worry about rushing to the bathroom or in time to put away your cute underwear.

Beach season? No problem. The FUN CUP keeps you protected while you swim, run, walk, hula hoop, whatever. Plus, you don't have to worry about a tampon string sticking out of your swimsuit or bathing naked during your period.

SAVINGS
The average tampon user will spend more than $50. per year in tampons. The FUN CUP costs only 34.90? for a pack of two. Not only do they pay for themselves in a few months, but you can safely continue using them for years.

SEX
Sex is better when you are not completely dry by using a non-sticky tampon or by using a sanitary pad. Trust us. Plus, while tampons can leave micro-tears in your vagina, leaving you more susceptible to infections, the FUN CUP keeps your vagina healthy and ready for action.

Aren't you doing some serious penetration? You don't even need to bother taking it out. The FUN CUP is ideal for oral use, light fingers, tying a sy harness.

AN ECOLOGICAL OPTION
Do you use disposable menstrual products? Your vagina has a considerable carbon footprint, creating up to 140 kilograms of waste over the course of your life. In contrast, the medical grade silicone FUN CUP only needs to be replaced once every few years. Go ahead, save the Earth!

ANTIMICROBIAL BAG
The FUN CUP is the only menstrual cup that comes with a durable antimicrobial bag, keeping your cup clean and ready to use.

SHOULD I WORRY ABOUT TSS?
TSS is very rare, both in general and with the use of menstrual products. It is very dangerous and can also be fatal in some circumstances without treatment. TSS can occur for any of several reasons and is caused by toxic strains of bacteria entering the bloodstream.

TSS symptoms:
- sudden fever
- attack of chills
- disease
- v myths
- Muscle pain
- drop in blood pressure
- dizziness

If symptoms appear, take out the FUN CUP and see a doctor. Be sure to tell your doctor that you used an insertable menstrual product. If you have had TSS before, it is not recommended that you use the FUN CUP. To reduce the risk of TSS, follow the instructions for use. In general, we recommend checking with your doctor before using a new menstrual product.
